Project Description

I am proposing a dynamic movie review web site that will allow all registered users to submit movie reviews and aggregate them into an average rating for each movie. The site will have an admin login page to allow the administrator to edit, update or delete any aspect of the website. In addition, this site will provide a user registration function to allow users to register and login to the site.

Functionality

Functionality of the site must include the following:

- Secure login for both users and administrators of the site.
- User registration page.
- Add/Edit/Delete function for administrator
- Allow users to add/search movie reviews

Development Platform

The site will be coded in PHP using MySQL as the database management system.
